NEW PLANTINGS

A new home not planted is unfinished. Tasteful exterior decoration with shrubs, evergreens and flowers is a necessary step toward completion. It is not essential that the house be surrounded by plants, but rather a few well related groups, properly placed.

OLD PLANTINGS

A planting grown tall and unsightly is little better than none at all. Reorganization by transplanting and pruning often produces wonderful results. Frequently the material is good but improperly located, and unless the plants are very large and out of proportion, reorganization will effectively adjust matters.

MOVING LARGE TREES

Age and dignity may be added almost over night by the use of large evergreens and shade trees in sizes from 30 to 60 feet. We have successfully shifted many large specimens.
BOXWOOD

Perhaps the finest of all plants indigenous to this climate is Buxus Sempervirens in variety. Boxwood adds charm and colonial dignity in a manner difficult to explain, but which cannot be secured by the use of any other material. We handle a great deal of Boxwood and can arrange to ship large and small specimens to distant points if desired.
